PIONEER WASHER. JAMES BRUSIE, AGENT FOR OREGON AND WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

THIS CELEBRATED WASHING MACHINE IS now for the first time introduced to the Oregon public. It is unrivalled for its simplicity, durability and the rapidity and ease of its action. Washing the dirtiest clothes perfectly clean in from five to ten minutes, with but slight labor, and lasting with proper care, for ten years. The wear and tear of clothing in washing by this machine is vastly less than by any other known process of washing. It is easily worked by one person.

This Machine captured the Special Premium at the California State Fair, and all that have used it pronounce it an invaluable adjunct to all housekeepers and families and washing men and washing women.

It has been extensively introduced throughout the State of California, and receives the universal commendation of all who have used it.

The undersigned is now in the city of Portland, where he can be seen at Mr. O. Killegrin's Store, corner of Front and Yamhill Sts., East side, Portland, and is prepared to furnish the Machine to purchasers, and also to sell and dispose of County Rights for the sale of the same.

LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENTS.

NEW YORK, June 21, 1867.

This is essentially the sporting season of the year. About every day for the past month, there has been either a trot, a race, a rowing match, a steeple chase, a yachting sweepstakes, a prize fight of forty rounds and two hours duration, a pic-nic festival, a foot-race, a cricket, a base ball or a billiard match—Sundays not even excepted, and on some days there have been a half-dozen or more of these sporting entertainments.

But decidedly the most interesting events of the spring, have been the many fine exhibitions of trotting speed on the American turf. Betting on horse races is fast getting to be a mania in America, and the sports of the turf are more potent than the attractions of the press, politics, business, law, or the pulpit.

None are so high in rank or so favored by fortune, but they submit to the spell of the track. Ladies crowd the grand stands and eager spectators are counted by thousands. Well known clergymen may often be seen as witnesses of a good race. There are in the vicinity of New York not less than seven splendid race courses, at all of which, this season, have been held grand trials of equestrian speed. A half century ago, a horse that could trot inside of 2:40 was a prodigy, and a double team in harness that could make a mile in three minutes, was a wonder. While the world has been making strides in Empire, horse-flesh is not much behind the speed of the modern locomotive and the telegraph. 2:40 time soon becomes an old story, and the plow, the dray and the road have turned out many horses that have cut down the seconds, until now, when we speak of fast horses, we mention those that trot five mile heats to wagons in 2:27, 2:25, 2:22 and 2:21 the mile. Single trotting under the saddle or in a sulky, has been accomplished by Flora Temple in 2:19, and now comes Ethan Allen at a trifle better; only a wink of a second, but still better; and at the last in dashes that wonderful compound of muscle wind and horse flesh, Dexter, who has put the fastest time on record, swinging round the circle, in one grand trot, without a break, in 2:18 1-5. At that rate, in another fifty years, where will horse flesh go to? Is there any limit short of lightning time?

The year 1867 will long be memorable among American farmers as the wet season. Only once within a quarter of a century has so much rain fallen from January to June over the Atlantic States. For a good steady job of forty days and forty nights, without a single lot up, Oregon enjoys the reputation of being able to show the clean thing on a rain dash; and if there be another country, which for tolerably frequent showers in the long run, can beat your State, we have not had the pleasure of an acquaintance with it. Yet even Oregon will have to dash in an extra shower or two, or this year she will be overrun by New York, and indeed by the entire country from the Atlantic sea-board to the Rocky mountains.

But everything is growing—wheat, oats, corn, rye, barley, beans, peas, fruits, berries, cabbages, potatoes, and all sorts of "garden truck." And grass, grass, grass, oh! gracious!—what an abundance of grass.

"A horse bit his master—how came it to pass? The good parson said—all flesh is grass."

If the heavens will only withhold their rains during the mowing season, these United States will produce this year the largest hay crop of the world.

Of course the products of the dairy must be correspondingly large. Under this head, we have a suggestion to make to Oregon farmers. It is very well known that profits from the dairy, when properly and successfully carried on, are among the surest and most remunerative of all farm labor. It is a branch of domestic industry in which all members of a family—the good farmer's wife as well as the boys and girls, can participate. Oregon is pre-eminently a grazing and a dairy country. On one side there is a splendid market for all the good butter and cheese that can be produced. Look through the various agricultural districts of all these Atlantic States, and whenever you find a section of country producing the largest supply both of cheese and butter, there you will find the richest and most prosperous communities.

With so fine a market at the very threshold of those valleys, the farmers of Oregon ought to produce annually more dairy products than any other equal number of agriculturists in our country. But how stand the figures? There are thousands of fine cattle upon your hills and valleys; fat beeves annually slaughtered in all your markets, or driven eastward across the mountains, for the mining regions of Oregon and Idaho. Stock growers have manifested a commendable enterprise in introducing largely fine blooded varieties, and improving the quality of their herds.

The exhibition of fat bullocks, fine cows and premium calves at your State and county fairs, are not much inferior to the best displays of stock in the older States.

But when you come to the cheese and the butter, what a falling off is there, my countrymen!

True, there are a few honorable exceptions. There are some of the good dames of Oregon who know how to do a churning and make a cheese equal to the best, and fit for a king to eat.

But honestly, now, (without any offence for plain talk,) kind friends, don't you think most of the cheeses made last year, were more fit for grind stones, or to lay foundations for mud-sills to a mill, than to be put into a man's stomach? And how much of the butter was as dubious as though Delilah had shorn her Samson under the churn-dash?—a little too hairy for hash, not quite enough for mortar. And how many firkins finally went over as an ingredient of very poor axle grease.

The butter business is one that each housewife must work up for herself, but in the cheese department something more devolves upon the men, and we will proceed at once to our suggestions.

To make good cheese requires a large number of cows. The larger the quantity of milk, other things being equal, the better can be made the cards and the cases.

It has been proven by many years experience among the farmers of New York, Ohio and some other States, that a community of labor and of interests among the dairymen of any neighborhood, town or precinct, is altogether more profitable to all; a given large amount will produce more cheese, of a better quality, and command a higher price in the market, than when made up at each farm in small quantities.

Herein lies the great profit of cheese making in these States: there were reported in the State of New York alone, for last year, 372 cheese factories, which worked up the milk from 168,166 cows. In other States there were 114 factories, employing 53,927 cows; over three-quarters of these were in Ohio. This gave an average of over 450 cows to each factory; but a few are very large establishments, in thickly settled communities; and employed more that 1,000 cows; others have less than 100.

Now let any of the farmers of Tualitin Plains, or of Yamhill, Polk or Benton, Marion, Linn or Lane counties, Umpqua or Jackson; who live within a circuit of eight or ten miles, combine together, select a good central spot for a factory, at a place most convenient of access to all, by some clear running brook or fine spring of water; build a cheap but neat factory, with a small steam boiler; employ a good experienced cheese-maker for foreman, and if you have not got such in the neighborhood, send abroad for one; good industrious country girls or boys will make all the help required; give the preference to the girls always, for they are neater and cleaner than boys; the whole establishment will cost only a few hundred dollars, and will last for years; let the farmers provide themselves with every-light spring wagon or buggy, and large tin cans or jars to convey the milk to the factory; the wife or any one of the boys can drive down morning and evening after milking; along any road or from any quarter, the neighbors can combine, and have one wagon to take all their milk from their neighborhood; each farmer at milking, placing his can or cans ready filled at his own door or gate, so they can be expeditiously set into the wagon as the milk-gatherer comes along; by the time he has reached his last house in the circuit, he has a full load, and drives directly to the factory; there each farmer's supply of milk is poured by turns into the receiving tank, and weighed by the foreman, who keeps an account with every person supplying the factory. By this arrangement, every separate can of milk, be it from some poor widow who owns only her one cow (old Brindle,) or the rich farmer who is able to keep his forty cows, gets its just and fair proportion of the whole account.

An association should be organized, selecting three or five of the farmers as directors to control the management of the factory, to superintend the sale of the cheese product, and to apportion to each neighbor supplying milk, their proportion of the proceeds. The whole thing, it will be seen at once, can be conducted economically, systematically and most profitably. Our word for it, if some farmers will only organize and start one of these neighborhood cheese factories next year, in less than five years there will be one or more in every county in the State, and Oregon cheese will rank A, No. 1, on all the Pacific coast, and the benefit to the agricultural and manufacturing interests will be second only to the Woolen Factory interests. Let some farmers this year begin by getting information from the best factories in New York and Ohio, of the whole modus operandi; authorize some one to visit these factories, and secure a good foreman to go out and superintend the erection and running the first enterprise; that will be a school from which will graduate expert cheesemakers to become foremen or forewomen in others. Who will move in this matter?

While on this dairy matter, we must tell a story of the experience of two city gentlemen who had visited some of those large factories on the Western Reserve in Ohio. Brown declared upon his honor that "at one factory the company relieved milk from 1700 cows, and made 20 cart-loads of cheese per day." As the statement appeared rather large, he called on his companion, Moore, who clinched the statement by saying that although he "did not pay so particular attention as his friend Brown, to the number of cows and quality of cheese," but he "was most surprised to know that the company had three saw mills run by butter-milk and whey!"

From all parts of the country comes good news of the promising fruit crop, and abundance of berries. Such an endless profusion of apples in their green beauty; ripening cherries reddened like a blaze of fire; delicious peaches whose golden-hued blushes remind one of the original Eden with all its primitive abundance, prodigality and luxuriousness; the strawberries are ripe, and the mulberries are teeming; blackberries and raspberries are fast approaching, and will yield most liberally.

By the way, is there not some doubt about our first parents in the Garden having as large and luscious a variety of fruits to inspect and taste as we, their degenerate sons and daughters now enjoy? For every year some pomologist or horticulturist has been producing some new variety hitherto unknown to the whole world, until now their names are legion. Oregon is probably at this time the best State in the Union for the production of the hardy orchard fruits—and the greatest variety of berries—and why don't Oregon fruit-growers turn their attention to the production of new seedling varieties of all kinds.

The improvement in cultivation of that never cloying, luscious fruit, the strawberry, has been very great during the past few years, each summer bringing into note and favor some new variety. A great favorite just now in this locality, is the "Barnes' Seedling" grown in New Jersey. Uniform in size and of a dark color, heart-shaped, solid and juicy. It is the pride of the market.

At Indianapolis, recently, was held a strawberry fair, and in the language of the turf, sweepstakes were offered in prizes; the "Jacunda" came in two lengths ahead of all other berries. Now, as Oregon has the largest variety and most delicious flavored native strawberries, "to the manor born," why can't some one produce a seedling there that shall be the Doctor of the berries and beat the world.

How rapidly has grape-growing and wine-making in the United States grown within the past few years, and while the temperance reform is at work throughout the land, and seems of late to have taken new vigor for putting down the manufacture and use of whisky, brandy, rum, gin, and all such villainous concoctions, would it not be well to encourage wine culture? Man is a curious being; like nature, he "abhors a vacuum;" when he puts whisky out, he must put something else in. The whole history of the world shows that no great vine-growing nation has ever been a nation of drunkards. And those nations who never made native wines, are largely drinkers of a worse sort of stuff. Heretofore we have been great producers of whisky and rum. May we not hope that the tide of wine-making has fairly set in, and that our production of the grape is destined to an important development. We have an assurance from the progress already made, and proof afforded of admirable adaptation of climate and soil in large sections of this country; the large vineyards which have been established—California taking the lead—Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and other States leading in the North, and Georgia, Maryland and other States in the South; also, in the great increase of stores and saloons devoted exclusively to the sale of native wines. In this city, there are more than a score of good houses recently established, for the sale, both wholesale and retail, of California wines alone, and all appear to be progressing.

The capacity of the United States for vine culture may be judged from the fact that California alone is stated to have five million acres adapted to vineyards. The aggregate of European vineyards will not exceed twelve million acres. The number of vines now bearing in California has been estimated at four and half millions, producing nearly a gallon for each vine. Ohio has over seven thousand acres already planted with vines; produced last year two and three-quarter million pounds of grapes, and over a quarter of a million gallons of wine. The estimated annual yield per acre in our Western States is about the same as France, 200 gallons. In Georgia, 500 gallons are claimed, and in California, higher than this amount—even up to 800 gallons. On the shores of Lake Erie, is found to be an admirable locality for the vine, in a vineyard planted forty year ago, the crop having totally failed only four times, and the vines still in a healthy and fruitful condition. Wine-making in America has thus given great encouragement for all engaged to persevere in their efforts. What effort has Oregon to make in this branch of agriculture?

Before closing this letter, as we have been writing for the farmers and their wives, we have another item for the benefit of those patient toilers at the wash-tub and the clothes-wringing, who have no hired girl, and wish to have snow-white linen every week.

A receipt worth a thousand dollars, for the cure of parboiled fingers, worn out knuckles and weak backs. Just take one pound of common sal soda and a half pound of unslacked lime, put them in a gallon of water and boil about twenty minutes; let it stand until cool, then carefully drain off the liquid and put it in a strong jug or jar; this is your washing fluid. To do your washing, soak your dirty clothes over night, or until they are well wet through, then wring them out, rub on plenty of soap, and in each boiler of clothes well covered with water, add one tea c

The Copperhead Species not Extinct.

It is not strange that the astute minds which have made the discovery that levying war against the United States is not treason, should also discover that the real traitors are those who resisted and defeated the attempts of the faction which levied war against the United States. One discovery is the complement of the other The other day our attention was directed to a labored argument which was written to prove that the declaration of treason which is given in the Constitution is entirely erroneous Subsequently another article from the same pen appeared, designed to show that the real traitors are the men who compose the Congress of the United States. Thus we have the fact established, to the satisfaction of at least of one individual, that the Confederates who levied war against the Government have not committed treason; while members of Congress, many of whom fought on the side of the Government, are guilty traitors. The rule that "treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them or in adhering to their enemies," does not suit the views of the Herald. It calls Congress a body of "perjured traitors;" but thinks that as its Southern friends merely "levied war," the doctrine of treason cannot cling to them.

Members of Congress, representing a majority of the people of the loyal States, have endeavored to reunite the country on the basis of loyalty, and that is their crime. They have prevented their country from being betrayed into the hands of those who attempted to rend it to pieces, and this is the extent of their treason. They have done what the people expressly commanded them to do, and for this they are "perjured traitors!" The paper above mentioned takes Senator Williams as an example of those representatives of the people who have done this guilty thing, and proceeds to talk in this elegant manner:

> This perjured traitor to popular liberty, who has betrayed his country and the cause of constitutional government for a price, has the shameless audacity to talk of the treason of the South and Jefferson Davis as a criminal, and of adopting measures to "make treason odious!" Such mendacious impudence has no parallel this side of the infernal regions. By every rule of civil law or ethics, George H. Williams is more guilty of treason than Jefferson Davis.

We publish this extract simply to let the Union men of Oregon see that Copperheadism is precisely the same monstrous thing it was when it opposed the raising of flags in this State in 1861; when it rejoiced at the defeat of Bull Run; when it cheered lustily for every rebel success of the war; when it called the national soldiers "murderous hirelings" and characterized Davis and Lee as the "glory of the land;" when it threatened outbreaks and bloodshed in all parts of the North; when it met in secret caucuses at midnight to organize plots against the public peace; when it exulted at the assassination of Lincoln and wept over the fall of Davis and his associates in rebellion. That every Union man is more a traitor than Jefferson Davis is no new Democratic doctrine. It is as old as 1860. If those who proclaim such sentiments as these think their party will be a gainer by it, just let them go on. One thing is very certain: so long as they continue it they will be a minority in this Government.

The Latest Phase of "My Policy."

The acting President is determined to incite his "unreconstructed" friends to every sort of mischief, and to give them all possible assistance in accomplishing it. His latest effort is to inspire them with a hope that they can compel Congress to pay the debts of their late so-called State Governments. His argument is that because Congress refuses to recognize those Governments, the nation is responsible for their debts. From Johnson's standpoint this may be a good argument; but from any other point of view it is absurd. He regards those Governments as valid and legal; Congress knows nothing about them. They were created by the acting President without authority of law, and hence never had a legal existence. That the General Government should be held responsible for any debts they might have incurred is therefore ridiculous. Those State Governments were simply the children of the Executive Department, and if there is anything to pay on their account Mr. Johnson may hand it out of his own pocket. No one can fail to see the fallacy of the claim on Congress for the debts they incurred.

GOOD FOR THE IRON CLAD.—A consolations rebel has been discovered. P. H. Leslie, of Glasgow, Ky., was announced recently as a candidate for Congress to fill the place of Hise, the despairing Confederate, who found refuge in suicide. Somebody having called Leslie's attention to the "iron-clad oath" required of all members of Congress, he forthwith withdrew his name and published the following card to the newsh Democracy:

> I have just seen and read the new oath, enacted and engrafted upon the Statute Books in 1862, to be administered to each member of Congress before he is allowed to take his seat. If I should be elected I should be required to swear I never connived, encouraged, or countenanced any individual in arms against the United States. This, as a conscientious man, I cannot do. I feel that it is due to my friends to say at once, I cannot be a Representative in Congress, for the reason aforesaid.

Good for the iron-clad oath. It is serving an excellent purpose in keeping those confessed rebels out of Congress.

BAGGING.—Bagging materials are in great demand at San Francisco. A dispatch from that city dated the 11th, states that the advance had been fully ten per cent. in value during the preceding ten days, and would probably "advance as much more before the close of July, as, owing to the custom of bagging grain for shipment, bags must be had at any price. The dealers have all on hand and to arrive for the season. This bag business entails an expense of upwards of a million dollars per annum on the farmers of this coast, and will increase in proportion to their crops unless they conclude to ship their grain in bulk, as is done in other cities. All this bagging is imported, the greater portion of it from Europe, so that it confers but little benefit on anybody except the importers."

The contest instituted by Cyril Ward, Republican, against E. H. Wilson, Democrat, for a seat in the Council of Washington Territory is based, says the Vancouver Register, upon the fact that penitentiary convicts confined at Steilacoom were allowed to vote. These "reliable Democrats" were marched to the polls and put through the "straight ticket." Well, if Jefferson Davis, the Democratic chief, ought to have full political rights, why shouldn't the Democratic convicts at Steilacoom have the same? Union men must not be unreasonable. How can they expect peace and tranquility and good feeling if they pursue a revengeful course in cases like this?

A new first class commercial paper was issued in San Francisco on the 9th inst. The Union says it makes a fine appearance and contains a great amount of information relating to the trade and resources of the coast

AN ELOPEMENT.—A "tin wedding" was observed after an unusual manner in Vermont, the other day. The wife eloped with a young fellow, taking with her all the "tin" her husband had saved in ten years The discovery of her absence of course closed the festival.

Seventy thousand Germans emigrants are booked for this country the present season. They are represented to be of the hardy laboring class.

The population of Japan is said to be only 16,000,000, instead of 10,000,000, as commonly believed

Germany has co-operative societies numbering 350,000 members, with yearly returns of large profits.

The emigration from Ireland to this country is immense. Nine steamships were filled in a week at Cork.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

DATES TO JULY 20.

The Veto Message

CHICAGO, July 20.—A large portion of the veto Message consists of an elaborate argument against the constitutionality of civil authority in military officers. The President says whether we make the character of the military appointees either as civilian or a military officer, the provision is equally hostile to the Constitution, which vests in the President alone or in some cases with advice and consent of the Senate the power of appointing Federal officers The bill makes district commanders superior to the President and commanding General of the army, as well as the Senate It is unconstitutional that the President shall faithfully execute the laws and it devolves on him to choose his own agent Whilst this obligation rests upon me, I will never willingly surrender the power given me for its execution

The President concludes by saying that he is still hopeful of the future and trusts that in the end the rod of despotism will be broken and the armed yoke of power lifted from the necks of the people, and the principles of a violated Constitution preserved

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Senate refused to take up House bill in relation to the election of officers in Washington City, on the ground of the resolution adopted at the beginning of the session.

Mr. Chandler, speaking on the adjournment question, took occasion to attack Mr Fessenden In referring to the conservative Senator from Maine, he said there was a hybrid concern in the Senate known as conservative Republicanism, which like other hybrids was incapable of reproduction. The political highway was as clearly marked with the gravestones of conservative Republicanism as the highway to California is with the carcasses of dead mules

Fessenden replied defending his political course and alluded to the charge that he had many relatives in the public service, by saying that none were appointed by his request. He believed that men who might be called upon to act as judges in grave matters should refrain committing themselves in advance Mr Fessenden spoke at considerable length and Mr Chandler replied that he had attacked the Senator from Maine on his public record. He (Fessenden), had stood up in the Senate, month after month, as the defender of Andrew Johnson Mr Fessenden, in reply, said that the charge was simply untrue Mr Chandler reiterated his assertion somewhat bitterly.

In the House, the Senate bill to carry into effect the treaty with Venezuela was passed, and the House proceeded to consider the Senate bill to provide reservations for Indians An amendment was adopted giving the commissioners a wider range in the selection of territory for the reservations, and the bill passed

The Judiciary Committee was authorized to send for persons and papers in the matter of the investigation as to whether Delaware and Kentucky had republican forms of government

The House refused to concur in the Senate amendment relative to adjournment.

The Speaker directed the issue of a warrant for the arrest of Lafayette C. Baker, to compel him to answer to the charge of contempt to the House, in refusing to obey a summons to give testimony before the Judiciary Committee

A resolution was adopted ordering the Judiciary Committee to report forthwith the testimony in Impeachment, by 57 ayes to 47 noes.

The Senate organized a committee which reported a concurrent resolution for an adjournment at half past four P. M. to-day till November 21st, to which the House agreed, by 71 ayes to 40 noes

WASHINGTON, July 19.—In the House a number of Executive and Department communications were appropriately referred, including treaties with Russia and Venezuela A considerable amount of miscellaneous business was disposed of.

Mr. Boutwell made an elaborate speech when the veto message was received Schenck, Butler and others followed more briefly, but denounced the President with great violence and demanded impeachment Stevens said it is quite certain that unseen agencies are at work to prevent impeachment. He was satisfied that no attempt at impeachment would be made

Stevens defended the theory of Congress that the Southern States are conquered territory. The bill then passed by a strict party vote—ayes, 109; noes, 32. The resolution passed, providing that no District Commander shall be removed without the consent of the Senate, unless by recommendation of the Commanding General of the army. The veto of the appropriation bill to carry out the several reconstruction acts, was presented, and the bill passed by the same vote The House then adjourned.

In the Senate a joint resolution passed for the extension of the mail service between Japan and China by the introduction of more vessels without additional expense.

The reconstruction bill was passed over the veto with out debate by 26 ayes to 6 noes

The House resolution for adjournment, after considerable debate and several amendments offered and rejected, was finally amended so as to agree to adjournment at 3 o'clock to-morrow to the first Monday in December.

J. L. Gibbs is confirmed as Governor of Idaho.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—In the Senate, Ramsey introduced a joint resolution authorizing the extension of the mail steamship service to China.

A resolution of inquiry was introduced asking how many Mexicans were executed under Maximilian's decree

Wilson introduced a joint resolution expressing admiration at the heroic struggle of the Mexicans, and an earnest hope for the consolidation of the Republic in pursuance of its humane and liberal policy. Referred.

Also, a bill appointing Commissioners to select Reservations for the Indians of the Plains, was taken up, and after debate and amendment so as to authorize the President to appoint commissioners to consist of three general officers and the chairman of the Indian Committee in each House, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to negotiate with the Indians and report to the President, and the President authorized to call out 40,000 volunteers from Kansas and Nebraska if the Commissioners deem them necessary, the bill passed.

In the House a resolution passed, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to withdraw the payment of $30,000 cotton claims under the decision of the Court of Claims.

Kelly presented an address and thanks to Congress from citizens of Alabama for supplies furnished the suffering poor, ordered printed.

A resolution passed authorizing a change in the stopping places of the Japanese steamers, so that they may touch at Yokohama and Osaka.

John Mathew, an actor, publishes a card in self justification. He gives the remaining portion of Booth's letter to the National Intelligencer, which says, "I have for a long time devoted my energies and money to the accomplishment of a certain end and have been disappointed The moment has now arrived when I must change my plans The many will blame me for what I am about to do, but posterity will justify me." Signed, men who love their country better than life—Booth, Payne Harrold Atzerodt.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The Herald's special says that Chandler, Nye and Colfax are warmly in favor of Abbott's proposition for negotiations with Juarez, for the annexation of Mexico

CINCINNATI, July 19.—The vote of the Reconstruction Act is very elaborate document. The President reiterates the opinions expressed in his vetoes of the former acts and intimates that the present act flies upon it's face construction a meaning at variance with the original act intending to make the Government in all respects a paramount authority He says it is impossible to conceive any state of society more intolerant than this which has made the condition of twelve millions of American citizens living under the Constitution of the United States in fact or even all this territory, and yet a people denied every one of the sacred guarantees The bill gives military commands unlimited power even for the removal of any officer whatever, executive, judicial or legislative, a power which hitherto all departments of the Federal Government acting in concert separately never dared to exercise The officers or soldiers of the army may be made to govern the legislatures or judges, however unfit, and no provision is made in the law for an official bond. For example, when a soldier is detached by his officer as State Treasurer being thus detailed by the military law regulations, he must become an executive officer contrary to the laws of the State, yet the bill makes no provision for anything required by the State law, or for a bond in accordance with citizenship, &c. The result is that the Federal Government, by the agency of our officers, assumes the civil government of the States Congress declares that the State governments are illegal, and then provides that they shall be carried on only by the Federal officers The bill provides that none of the appointees, particularly commanders, shall be bound by the opinion of any officer of the United States They might refuse to obey even the Supreme Court, though utterly unfamiliar with the duties of the office imposed upon them. The reconstruction acts are based on the assumption that these ten commonwealths are not States The declaration comes too late. They have been repeatedly so recognized during and since the rebellion Even in Congress States were divided into Judicial Districts, and have been called by Congress to act through their legislatures upon two amendments to the Constitution. The President cites other instances of legislation recognizing them as States Incidents the allegations that the federal Government holds them as conquered territory. They are not conquered, but simply repressed.

A son of Mr. N. C. Illiyer, of this city, at Santa Cruz, yesterday, went out gunning, and by some unfortunate circumstance, accidentally exploded his gun, the charge taking a fatal effect upon himself.

The schooner Deadnought, which arrived in port yesterday from the Colorado river, reports that on July 2d, off Cape St. Lucas, Frank Lawson fell overboard and was drowned.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 20.—At 11 o'clock this morning the boiler of the Capitol Mill exploded, destroying the the mill and wrecking much of the contiguous property. Fortunately though there was no one seriously injured, notwithstanding the accident occurred at the busiest time of the day, in a crowded neighborhood. The Capitol Mills are the property of Mallory, Deming & Co., and are situated at 116 and 118 Sacramento street. The surrounding buildings are all more or less shaken. Messrs. Mallory, Deming & Co have hastily estimated their damage at between $6,000 and $7,000. The damage to other buildings and furniture will be about $1,500. The National Insurance Co. had $1,500 policy on the boiler and engines. The Pacific and the California Home Insurance Companies had $4 500 on the premises and stock belonging to Mallory & Co. A fire broke out among the wrecked timber. The Fire Department soon arrived and extinguished it before much damage was done

A two story building formerly occupied by Baker & Cutting as a vinegar and pickle factory, is rented by Blumberg & Co., as a vinegar and pickle factory. The upper portion is used as a common lodging house, and at the time of the explosion was occupied by several persons and some children. This building is now a wreck, bricks and other debris having been shot through the side wall, and a space fifty feet long by eighteen having been completely driven in by the concussion. On the west of the mill is a building belonging to Mr. Bryant, the upper part of which, joins the Occidental lodging house. One side of this building is wrecked—the rafters being torn from the walls; windows and skylights, smashed, the kitchen stove and all its contents knocked into fragments as well as those of several other rooms on that side of the building.

Mrs. Emory was severely crushed the evening before last while moving a frame building near the junction of Powell and Cutter street The whole weight of the building came upon him, and it was some time before his comrades could release him. He was extricated at length, but found to be horribly crushed.

The municipal and legislative conventions were both in session last night. The former made four more nominations without transacting any other business The nominations made were as follows Superintendent of Public Schools, Ira G. Hoyt Mayor, Haslett Hatton was nominated for Harbor Master Dr. Harris was renominated for Coroner After several ballots, Geo F. Turner was nominated for Surveyor over numerous competitors.

50 NOTE IT BE.—KOHN & FISHEL, No 91, Front street, have determined to be the cheapest house in the State, and as every person is complaining of hard times, have decided to make another deduction in the price of their fine and custom made clothing, furnishing goods, dry goods, etc Call and examine their extensive stock and convince yourself that the above is the fact

Buchtel's Photograph Gallery is the only establishment in Oregon that is thoroughly prepared to do all the different styles of work in the art Photographs from card to life size. The new cabinet cards, &c., &c. Small pictures enlarged (retouched) in India ink—paints in water-colors or oil by Mrs. S. J. Rumsey Pictures that are fading can be reproduced in this way All negatives taken in this gallery will be carefully preserved, and additional copies had. I have now on hand a very large collection of negatives, the names of which are recorded alphabetically in a book for that purpose that can be seen in the reception room.

STATE ITEMS.

Judge Wilson has been sick for two weeks with fever and rheumatism, but is recovering.

The M. E Church, South, will hold a camp meeting three miles west of Corvallis, beginning on Thursday, the 25th inst.

The papers say that the harvest in the upper part of the valley is pretty well advanced. Grain crops in that section will be lighter than usual

A report is current at the Dalles, brought by the Canyon city stage, that new diggings have been discovered on the Malheur.

The Mountaineer has information that a great many families are wending their way to the Yakima valley W T, with a view of becoming permanent residents. In addition to being a good stock raising country, the Yakima valley offers great inducements for farmers

The Mountaineer notices the arrival of Col Buckel from his quartz mill in the Powder river country, and learns that the prospect for a rich reward for the Colonel's industry and perseverance, was never more flattering than at the present time A new lode has been found which is said to be very rich We hope this may all prove true and that he may reap the reward due to one of the most enterprising men of Eastern Oregon

From the Dalles paper we learn that on Friday morning about 10 o'clock, while Mr James M Burns was crossing the river at Celilo, he at was accidentally capsized when he was rescued over Tumwater falls and drowned. Mr. Burns was employed on the O S N. Co, and was overseer of the wharf at Celilo. He was a sober and industrious man and had the entire confidence of the company He was about forty years of age and not married

The Corvallis Gazette says that the official certificate of Gov Woods, accepting thirty miles of Yoquina Wagon Road, was forwarded to the Secretary of the Interior on the 17th inst.—a duplicate of which certificate may be seen at the office of the Road Company. The act of Congress granting these lands provides "that a quantity of lands not exceeding thirty sections may be sold, and when the Governor of said State shall certify to the Secretary of the Interior that any continuous ten miles of said road are completed, then another quantity of land granted, not to exceed thirty sections, may be sold." The Road Company now has a full right to sell ninety sections of land The title to these lands is now completely vested in the Corvallis and Yaquina Bay Wagon Road Company Persons desirous of purchasing may do so immediately with the assurance of getting good titles

DIED:

In this city, July 20th, 1867, Darrah Kelley, youngest son of A. C. and F. G. Riplov, aged 15 months.

The funeral will take place from the residence of his parents, corner of Sixth and Pine streets, to-day at 2 P. M. Friends of the family are invited to attend.

MONUMENT TO AN OLD FELLOW.—The several Lodges of Odd Fellows in this State, through private contributions, have recently erected a beautiful marble monument to the memory of their deceased brother, N O Mayhew, who died at the Dalles on the 7th of March, 1866. It was made at the marble establishment of Mr Wm Young in this city, and was planted upon the tomb last Thursday. The Mountaineer says of it: It is a very handsome piece of work, made of variegated Italian marble. The base is of Oregon granite 22 inches square and 19 inches thick, supporting a beautiful marble base with an ogee finish on the top; this is 16½ inches square and 2 feet 2 inches high; on this rests the column the height of which is 3 feet 6 inches and with a base of 10 inches, tapering to 7 inches at the top, making 7 feet 3 inches in height altogether. The column bears in bold relief, beautifully engraved, the All-seeing Eye encircled with a halo of glory, where rests the three links representing the ever binding ties of Friendship, Love and Truth. Beneath this is a beautiful representation of an Encampment on a lovely plain, though enchanting as it may be, reminds one that our home is only temporary, that there is a never changing one beyond, beneath this, on the marble base facing the tomb, is the following inscriptions: "In memory of P. G. W. Nathan C. Mayhew, the M. W. G. Master of the R. W. Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F., of Oregon. Born at Edgartown Massachusetts. Died March 7th, 1866. He has passed the desitivity and now sees beyond. Erected by the members of this jurisdiction to F. L. T. Aged 42 years."

O. W. Pope & Co., of this city, are now busily employed in manufacturing the pipe for the Oregon City Water Works Company.....The select school of Miss Olney and Miss Devore, at the Baptist Church in this city, will reopen on Monday next. ...We are requested by Rev. Mr Dodge to state that the Rock Creek camp meeting will hold over to-morrow. The attendance has been quite large, weather pleasant and much interest felt in the service of Rev Mr Blakely, associate editor of the Pacific, was in town on Saturday. He has met with a very successful business tour, thus far, canvassing back to San Francisco, returning from Victoria.....Yesterday afternoon another large cougar was brought to town, heels up, in a farmer's wagon. These critters will soon be like the critter of Roschien America, vide last Harper, if our rural friends do not let them alone. ...The Reliance will probably not be able to reach Corvallis many more times during the summer. The Echo will take her place, being of lighter draught.

COMING HOME.—Capt. Medorum Crawford received a telegram yesterday, from his son Medorum Crawford, Jr., announcing that he would leave New York on Saturday the 20th inst., for Portland, Oregon. He has just graduated at West Point, having entered the school, June 1863. Young Crawford was born in Yamhill county, Oregon, in 1843. He entered West Point with only a common school education, such as could be obtained in the indifferent schools of Oregon, up to 1858, in January of which year he went east. Upon graduating, he stood about an average in a class of sixty four, not one of whom, probably, entered the school under more or greater disadvantages. This certainly makes a good showing for an Oregon boy who "got his start in Yamhill." He leaves West Point with the rank of Lieutenant, and is doubtless assigned to duty in this department, though, in which arm of the service is not known. He should arrive here about the 2d of August.

VANCOUVER CITY FINANCES.—The Register of Saturday says: "There was in the city treasury on the 15th inst., the sum of $734 in currency. It is estimated that before the end of the current fiscal year, ending on March 1st 1868, an additional sum of $1,050 will be paid for licenses. Outside of the ordinary contingent expenses, there will have to be paid $400 for a fence around the cemetery, leaving a balance of $1,384 in currency, or $967 65 in gold. Out of the latter sum, Mr. Money will have to be paid $967 for the necessary grounds, and $327 39 on outstanding wharf bonds, which fall due on January 1st and March 1st, 1868. Thus there will be a deficiency of $139 35 available for incidental expenses, which the Common Council proposed to meet by levying a regular annual tax of five mills on the dollar, which if collected will be sufficient to meet all probable demands and leave a respectable surplus in the treasury."

A SAD CASE OF INSANITY.—W. P. Murphy of Salem arrived here Saturday evening from the Dalles, having in charge an insane man named John Mitchell, with the intention of placing him in the Insane Asylum. Mitchell is from Rock Creek, Clackitat county, W. T. Not being a citizen of this State he could not be received into the Asylum except as a private patient and no provision had been made for such an arrangement. He was accordingly placed in the county jail for safe keeping, until he can be taken to the Washington Territory Asylum at Monticello. Mitchell has a wife and two or three children living in Clackitat county, who are left in peculiarly distressing circumstances. The man, it is said, brought the worry upon himself through indiscretions which we shall not mention. He was formerly from Marion county, whence he emigrated, not long since, to Clackitat valley.

CIRCUIT COURT—SEATTUCK, JUDGE.—Proceedings of Saturday, July 20th:

John Nester vs. Charles Barrett; motion to make complaint more certain and specific sustained, and plaintiff to elect which count of complaint he will proceed upon; defendant allowed until the 22d inst. to answer.

A. S. Richardson vs. Fuller & Co. et al; motion to vacate judgment overruled; exception to ruling taken and noted.

Bybee & Young vs. T. L. Barbank; verdict of jury for plaintiffs for $250, coin, and $10, costs.

M. Schuyler vs. S. W. Fechheimer, et al, all the day was occupied in the examination of witnesses. Submitted to the jury at six o'clock P. M.

DOWN THE RIVER.—The Register learns from Mr A. S Abernethy that a party of Californians, engaged in salmon fishing near his establishment at Oak Point, have put up this season over 100,000 cans of salmon in one pound cans. They are put up and preserved in a peculiar manner. Fish is planted by the fishermen to be a secret of their own. The fish put up in this manner are considered a delicacy and favorite dish with epicures and command a high price in the market. In addition to the above, there will also be put up about 25,000 barrels of salmon for the California market. Mr. A. also says that the bark Samuel Roth sailed last Tuesday for San Francisco with a full cargo of assorted lumber from his mill intended for the San Francisco market.

VARIETIES.—The Benedicts and Bachelors of the Clackamas B. B. Club played a game on Thursday, says the Enterprise, resulting in favor of the latter 45 points. In justice to the married men we would state that they did their best but signally failed.

The Benedicts think the game about "a draw," as the subjoined note from one of them to the Enterprise, indicates. As the match game played between the Benedicts and Bachelors yesterday is finished by the latter, I deem it my duty to inform you otherwise. It resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Bachelors doing all the batting and scoring, and the Benedicts doing all the chasing after the ball!
Yours, HERCULES BENEDICT.

RECORDER'S COURT.—On Saturday the only case tried in the Recorder's court was the State of Oregon vs. W. J. Hagerman, charged with the larceny of a gold watch and $45 coin, from the house of Maggie Mitchell. The evidence given by the complainant was in substance that on the 4th of July last he went out into the back yard; the watch and money were taken from his room that evening; the room adjoins the saloon. The Recorder thought the evidence insufficient to hold the defendant, and discharged him.

THE RAINY SEASON inform us that the unusual rains of this month are doing much damage to the hay crop, and should they continue far into this week, will injure a great deal of early grain. A gentleman who has been in this country twenty-two years, and of that time nineteen years a farmer, says to never saw so long a spell of rainy and cold weather in July, as we have had this season.

R. W. I. G.—The Corvallis Gazette, publishes a letter from W. H. Payne, Representative from Oregon to the R. W. Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., in which he says, "Oregon received the office of R. W. I. G." at the late election of officers. As Mr Payne was the only Representative from Oregon, we suppose, he was the person elected to that office.

A NEW OFFICE.—Mr S G Reed's building, the old Bank of British Columbia, has been nicely fitted up, on North Front street and will be occupied on and after today as the office of the California, Oregon and Mexican Steamship Company, in charge of Mr Geo. W. Weidler, agent.

THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.—The brick foundations of the new school house, in Couch's Addition, have been completed and the frame of the building will be raised during this week. The house is expected to be in readiness for occupation early next fall.

IN MOURNING.—The Episcopal churches of this city, Trinity and St. Stephens have been dressed with the symbols of mourning, in respect to the memory of the late Rt. Rev. Bishop Scott.

THE FLACKENBURG.—This vessel is at Westport taking in cargo of lumber. She will sail for Honolulu in a few days.

TREASURE.—Wells, Fargo & Co., on Saturday, received from the Upper Columbia and Idaho, $75,000 in treasure.

PASSENGERS BY THE "CONTINENTAL."—You can't read the paper longer but this morning, because the steamer didn't get in; but you can go to Herman Reed's and buy shaker flannel shirts and drawers at $1 75, Idaho flannel socks at 25 cents; linen handkerchiefs at 37½ cents.

THE MAN WHO SAID THE Diamond Dye Colors manufactured by Moore & Stevens were the greatest discovery of the age was correct, but the said on the head precisely. By the same line of statement, Messrs Howe & Stevens are the greatest benefactors of the day. The great public suddenly believe in the colors, for they are to be found in almost every well regulated household in the country.—Sold by Smith & Davis.

PROPERLY ENRAPTURED.—Such were our feelings as we walked into the Music and Art Gallery of W. T. Peregoy, on First street, a few days since, and listened to the delightful tones and harmony which came from one of Mason & Hamlin's Cabinet Organs. From the soft trembling flute tones to the thundering bass of the pipe organ, all was equally free and sweet. And why is it other makers cannot produce instruments like these? Mason & Hamlin were the first to introduce the Cabinet Organ, and have gained such world wide notoriety that it stands as the work of two large factories to supply the demand for these valuable instruments.

LETTERS FROM THE INTERIOR OF THE STATE.

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, July 18, 1867.

ALBANY

is a wide awake town. Her people step quick, stand erect, walk fast and dress well—unmistakable marks of prosperity. The town contains about 1,000 inhabitants, and supports only two drinking saloons, which indicates that this people subsists more on food than whisky. There are a great many new buildings being erected in this young city, besides the college, which is built of wood, and when completed will be a handsome and commodious structure, a benefit to the State and an ornament to the town. There are quite a number of good bricks, but the greater portion of the town is built of wood; and yet they have no fire organization, and keep but one night watchman. Albany is the center of the finest agricultural district in the State, and she ships more grain, flour, wool, etc., than any town above Portland. Farmers have commenced harvesting their hay in Benton, Linn and Marion. Where I have recently been the crops will be unusually light. Wherever I go through the agricultural parts of the State I find many more new mowers, reapers and threshers of the best and latest patents than I expected to see. It is pleasing to know that Oregon farmers are keeping pace with all of the improvements of the times. Notwithstanding the hard times, I see many improvements going on among farmers, such as fences, barns, and comfortable and in some instances, elegant farm-houses. It is well, for who than the farmer, is more deserving, or who has more fairly earned all of the comforts and luxuries of life than the industrious tiller of the soil?

The great prairies of this locality, that were a vast common, only a few years ago, are now all fenced in, and changed to waving fields of grain, broad pastures and fruitful orchards.

While here, I met with the editor of the Albany Journal. He is a worker—writes all the editorial matter, is pressman, and sets about one half of the type for that paper. Success to him. In dustry should be rewarded. P. W. G.

California now exports 10,000 tons of copper annually. This is five times as large as the whole production of the United States ten years ago.

The only complete set of United States coins in private hands, is owned in San Francisco, and is valued at $50,000.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IDAHO—BOISE CITY, I. T.—Organized March 11th, 1867, (with circulation) under Act of Congress, approved June 3d, 1864. Authorized capital $50,000. Paid up capital $100,000 B. M Duffell, President C. W. Moore, Cashier. Collections of Notes and Accounts on the principal places in Idaho Territory promptly attended to. Exchange for Coin or Currency the Bank can be purchased of Ladd & Tilton, Portland, Oregon.

A SPLENDID INSTRUMENT.—We saw, yesterday, at J. L. Parrish & Co's something new in the way of an organ—a French instrument called the Organ Harmonium—invented by Alphonse Rodolphe. It is a very considerable modification of the organ as we have them from the American manufactories. It is provided with sixteen stops, each of which exercises a distinct and peculiar effect upon the tone. The base stops are the Forte, Jeu Bourdon, (soft, sweet) Bassoon, Clarion, Bourdon, Cornish Horn; the treble stops are Expression, Tromolo, Scotch Bagpipe, Flute, Charlonette, Fife, Hautbois, Voix Celeste, Forte, and Knee or Full Expression. The effect of these stops in changing the tone is most surprising. For instance: from the flute to Voix Celeste with Full Expression, the tone changes from what sounds precisely like a soft flute, to the full grand harmony which we would expect from an Angel choir—what the name imports. The Key-Board is movable and can be adjusted to any key, to any instrument, or to the voice of any singer. Other changes are no less surprising. The instruments are of the most perfect workmanship and of the highest finish; have taken the first medals at all the great European Expositions. The prices range from $175, to $600. Persons in want of an instrument should call and see them, for it is impossible to get a correct idea of them, except from personal inspection. J. L. Parrish & Co., are sole agents for the Pacific coast.

THE PEOPLE'S FRIEND.
Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain Killer
Possesses virtue which not only removes pain instantly, but regulates the stomach and gives strength, tone and vigor to the system. It is one of the medicines that is worth more than gold.
Don't experiment in testing new remedies, when you can buy the genuine Pain Killer, which everybody know to be good.
The Woodstock (C. W.) Sentinel says: "It is a generally admitted fact, that the medicine manufactured by Messrs. Perry Davis & Son has been instrumental in alleviating much pain, and giving relief to millions of suffering humanity. The medical faculty almost everywhere recommend the Pain Killer, and its reputation is now established as the most beneficial family medicine now in use, and may be taken internally and externally to expel pain." Sold by all medicine dealers.

A FAITHFUL ACCOUNT OF THE TRIP TO RALEIGH.

POST OFFIS CONFEDRIT X ROADS,
(which is in the State uv Kentucky,)
June 10, 1867.

I accompanied the President to Rawly. The President az yu'l feel safe at going anywhere without me to arrange the details and do the nice financeering which is necessary.

The Rawly trip was the occasion uv a serious trouble in the Cabinet. The President wuz in favor uv it. He sed, he wuz essensheily uv a filial persuasion. He had allux experienced a most consooming love for his parents, partikelerly for them on his father's side. He had swung around the entire circle uv official honor, and had found traitors on all sides, but he stood by his hand on his heart and say that he had never known a traitor man who, at sume period uv his life, had a father. Why then should we not honor our fathers? How good it be better dun than by layin corner stuns? His father deceest in 1812, and at wus time that this dooty wuz attended to. Besides, at this crisis in the affairs uv the country, with Wilson and Kelly a snortin through the South, he felt it would be a good thing to show ourselves.

Seward felt that it was well to go. Filial love wuz chanrain Shakspoer, who wus ez justly celebrated ez a dramatist ez one he could mention wuz for diplomatic telegrafin, remarkt. "How sharper nor a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child," the truth uv which he hed experienced, ez he had been styled the father uv the Republican party, but that wus not to the plot. It is the duty uv every son to lay corner stuns. In this case it would, perhaps, hev bin more creditable had it bin done fifty years ago, but wat difference is it? It is natral ez we are about bein gathered to our fathers that we should remember em. Besides, he had a little speech wich he felt he'd like to deliver. He wantid to bear testimony to the patriotism uv the son uv Jacob Johnson, partikelerly to our colored brethren in North Carolina, who hev been listenin to Kelly and Wilson.

Randall didn't bleeve in it at all. He made hold to say that as the deceest Johnson had slept without a corner stun for fifty-five years, he'd manage to git along a while longer. It wuz rather late in the day. He bleeved in feelin sorrowful over the decease uv our relatives, but he didn't go much on doin it fifty five years after date. It wuz too much like bustin into tears over the sufferins uv the last illness uv poor first wife's great grandmother. The speeches he didn't bleeve in at all. He had seen some uv it; he had accompanied one four uv the kind. He had bin on it. He wuz at Cleveland, at Indianapolis and Springfield, Illinoy. He begged to be excoosed. He didn't keer about takin such a kite agin. Ef the people uv the South shood receeve us ez cordjelly ez the people uv the Northidid, he proferred to consult his feelings and do absent. He was a sensitive plant and disliked sum things. Ef his misery served him rite, the demonstrations coodout be considered flatterin. The people didn't fling dead cats at us, but they did wuss. Ef they wuz cold they wuz rather too cold. Ef they wuz in a volatile humor they wuz rather too lively. He had about made up his mind that it wuzn't any yoose to fite it out on that line, ef it took all summer. Success is a dooty, but when success is an impossible ex water in the grate Sahara, wat's the yoose? Wherefore struggle? Let us go slow, draw our salories to the end uv our 'spective terms, and so live that when our summons comes to jine the innoomerable caravan that move out of Washington to'ards their 'spective homes, we go not like the dusky slave at nite, wat's bet his all on two pair, but soothed and sustained by wat we have saved, go like those whose get the wherwithal to live. It was a source uv comfort to him to know that the worst uv mon was soon forgotten. Who ever speaks of Tyler or Pierce, or Buchannon now! Benedict Arnold is only spoken uv on Fourth of Julys and Judas Iskariot on Sundays. It will be so with us in time, for wich, thank the Lord.

But it was determined to go, and I was sent to Rawly to find out where the grave uv the honored father uv our honored President was really locatid, and to make sich other arrangements ez the exigencies uv the case demanded; wich I did. I had difficulty in locatin the grave, and alut jest shoor that I found the rite one. The people uv Rawly was anxious to hev it cum off, ez trade was dull in the retail line, and for fear that I would report that the grave coodn't be found, and thus nip their huddin hopes, they give me the choice uv some twelve or fifteen. Selectin the most eligible, I made other arrangements and returned.

The excursion copertated very favorably with the one we took last fall. The people received us at every stashen with the utmost affectin demonstrashens uv love. "Johnson! Johnson! Johnson!" they yelled at each stoppin place, which sounded sweeter in his ears and mine than that damnable literashun uv "Grant! Grant! Grant! wich greeted us at every plat north. The President wuz sorry he didn't take Grant with him to show him that ef he was the most popular in sum localities, we had the hearts uv the people in other. Put ther wuz a drawbax to our enjoyment. Wherever we would the President commence, "Er — ers!" than Randall would pull the bell rope, and off the trane would start. He was determined that the President shouldent speak, wich put me to a grate deal uv trouble, as after we arrived I had to write out and sly apik to the papers the speeches that the President wood hev made.

At Rawly General Battles addressed the Presidential party and the President responded. He remarkt that in Rawly he first opened his tender eyes, a penniless boy. "Here is the scenes uv his childhood; here is everything to bind a man to his fellow, and to associate him with that with wich he is associated; here is where the tenderness uv heart her taken hold upon everything to wich it hez attached itself. But he was wandrin from subjick. His mindwent back to the day he left this city a penniless boy. Where is them wich he left behind him? He begged to inquire, where is the friends uv his childhood? Where is the Maywoods?——

"Killed at Antietam!" shoutid a returned Confederit. "I was by Willyum's side when he was shot."

"——Wher is the Hunteraes?"

"Runnin a distillery at Wavell court 'ouse," sed the same feller, who thot the President reely wantid to know. He was choked down and the President perseded.

"Wher is the Roysters, and the Smithses, the Brownses, and Joneses? Wher is the long list uv men who lived at that day; who lived here when I wux a penniless boy, and who, like me, command respeck fur constancy uv devotion? I feel proud uv this demonstrashun—I feel proud uv any demonstration. Ez allooshen hez bin maid to my boyhood daze, when I wux a penniless boy, I may say here, ez pertinent to that subjek, that I hev adhered to the fundamental principles uv the Guvernment, and to the Rag and Constitution. But to return to my subjick. When I went out from among you a penniless boy, I adopted the Constitution as my guide, and by them I hev bin guided. To the young I wood say that they will be safe in takin me ez a model. Leavin here ez a penniless boy it is not for me to say whether or not I hev succeeded. I am no longer a penniless boy nor is them wich is around me. Mrs. Cobb ain't a penniless boy, nor is—but this is wanderin from the subjick. For the encouragement uv the young men afore me, I wood say that I hev enjoyed all I care about. I am no aspirant for nothin, and therefore the way is open for em. All places uv honor is now before em. I thank you for this cordjel welcome, North Carliny sent me out a penniless boy, and did not afford meselch advantages ez, considerin my merits, I ought to hev had, yet I love her. Its better ez it was. Goin out a penniless boy, and returnin after holdin every office from alderman uv my adopted village up to President, shows my qualities to a much better advantage than ef I hadn't gone out a penniless boy. I thank you for this tribute to my good qualities."

Risin promptly and drawin out his pocket handkercher, the President assoomed a look uv subdued greef, and resumed.

"I hev come among you to participate in the dedicashen uv a monument to a man wich you all loved, tho it has taken suthin like fifty years for you to diskiver it. He wuz poor and humble, wich akkounts for my goin from among you a penniless boy, but ov him I am proud, for hed it not bin for him I wouldent hev returned the shinin example to you young men wich I am."

The corner stun was laid and the monument set on it. It is uv red limestone, ten foot high. It's ez good a ten foot uv stun respekt ez there is in North Carliny. Ez the monument was elevated there wux the appropriate speeches, and then my little arrangements cum in. A nigger woman I hed took with us from Washington rushed for'ard and said: "Bress de Lord, Ize bin a waitin' for dis day to see de President—our President" at wich a band uv niggers I'd picked up and drilled, hollered: "Hur."

This little affection seem over, two quadroons, wich I'd also bro't with us in a priv car, cum for'ard with a expression uv profound greef, at wich the President wept, and tenderly slung bokays uv the choicest flowers we could buy in Washinton upon the tomb.

It wuz reely a touchin tableo. The ancient nigger woman a holdin the President's hand, the young quadroon as a slingin the bokays, the President with his hed bowed, apparently dreamin uv the days uv his boyhood, me with a expression uv thankfulness that the niggers had at last recognized their Moses, Seward with a saintly smile on his face, Wells tryin to look ez near like Seward ez possible, but failin miserably to look like anything but the eggregje ole ass he is, and Randall with his handkercher to his eyes ez if outmastered by the most in seene, but keepin one eye cocked over the hankercher to see how it took among the niggers, it was a sceen easier to be imagined than described.

Thar wur several incidents which occkurred wich did not appear in the telegraph. When His Excellency wuz speakin uv himself, and remarkt that his race way nearly run, a unregenerated nigger yelled out "I hank de Lord!" and when the quadroons wuz a strewin flowers on the grave uv His Excellency's father, I observed rather more tittering among the niggers than I approved uv on so sollum a occasion. I askt Randall wat he that uv the spokeshin, and his answer, "It didn't pay!" struck me ez bein a rane uv trooth runnin thro it.

On our return the President wuz allowed to spook more, for Randall got tired of watching him. We returned in good health and sum uv us in good spirits. Seward feels well, for he has a abidin faith that the more shownin uv himself alluz hez an effeck for good upon the people, and as a mattor uv course Seckretary Wells thinks so too.

PETROLEUM V. NASBY, P. M.,
(Wich is Postmaster), and Professor in the Ham and Japhet Free Academy for the development uv the intellek uv all races irrespective uv color)

In making my entrance into the city to-day my mind involuntarily wandered back to the time when I left its streets, a penniless and inexperienced boy, to make my way in the world. When looking back forty years ago and returning here to-day, I begin to inquire where are those I left behind? In the language of poetry itself, "The friends of my childhood! Where are they?" Echo answers where. Some have emigrated and gone to other lands; some have complied with the inexorable and irresistible call, and have passed to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveller returns. I again ask, friends of my childhood, where are they? Where are the Haywoods, Hunters and Lanes? Where are the Pearces, the Roysters, and Smiths, and Joneses? * * * When I went out from among you, and from the time I became connected with politics, I laid down as my rule a conscientious performance of duty, adopted the constitution as my country as my guide; and by these, whether in prosperity or adversity, I have always been guided and controlled, and, come weal or woe, in high places or low places, with the constitution as my guide, with my hand laid on the altar of my country, I will leave these great principles for those who are to follow. * * * I have been reflecting, while I was walking along the road conversing with a cavalryman, that forty one years ago I walked over this same ground alone, and, I was about to say, almost penniless, with scarcely money enough to pay my expenses to the then newly found State of Tennessee. * * * I know some of you are familiar with the hardships and fiery trials through which I have passed during the time that has elapsed since I left you. It is not for me to say whether I have succeeded or not. Let that be as it may; my race is nearly run. I am no aspirant for anything. The way is open for all.

EXECUTION OF MAXIMILIAN—HE MIGHT HAVE ESCAPED, BUT WAS UNWILLING TO ABANDON HIS GENERALS.—The Brownsville Ranchero of the 6th of June, has the following:

Bernard Yturria yesterday reported that a special express had arrived at Matamoras, bringing the news that Maximilian, Mejia and Miramon had been shot. General Berriozabal was immediately consulted on the subject, and denied all knowledge of any such report. It is unnecessary to add that there was a deep feeling of sorrow over the sad news.

The Mexican correspondent of the same paper dates a letter on the 20th ult., at Pandemonium, which, we take it, is somewhere in the neighborhood of Querretaro. He says the treason committed by Colonel Miguel Lopez, uncle to Mrs. Bazaine, is confirmed. Maximilian, who loved him as a son, had made him a General a few days before. The price of his treason was two thousand ounces—one thousand for Lopez, and the balance for his subalterns. His regiment, called "Dragoons de la Emperatrix," have joined the files of the Liberal army, and have already taken up their line of march towards the city of Mexico. It is reported that the Liberals found in the city of Querretaro nine thousand of their men, who had been made prisoners in the different sallies made by the garrison, and fifty-one pieces of artillery. Perfect order reigned in the city during imperial rule. The Liberals found hospitals well organized, large magazines of clothing, stores and arms, and plenty of ammunition. The Imperial Generals held a council of war on the 10th of May. They laid their plans well and would have surely routed Escobedo on the 15th if Lopez had not sold his country, last and least, his honor, for $32,000. When the Emperor surrendered his sword to Escobedo, he said to him in a very dignified manner: "I surrender to you my sword, owing to an infamous treason, without which, to-morrow's sun would have seen yours in my hands!" You have now one reason why Escobedo did not attack; he was waiting for treason to be ripe. No doubt that this infamy had been planned by Lopez and others, sometime before, but they had not found an opportunity to carry it out with certain success until the day that Lopez, who had all the confidence of the Emperor, should be officer of the day.

Col. Gonzalez, commanding the Empress regiment, upon learning of the treachery of Lopez, took a portion of his command and fled for the city of Mexico. Maximilian had an opportunity to make his escape after the treachery of Lopez was discovered, but said he would share the fate of his companions in arms.

ON COLON.—There was a noteworthy, illustrative incident on a rail car out of Springfield, Massachusetts, the other day. A big, black, but clean and well-dressed "colored brother" entered and sat down by one of the, at least formerly, "ruling race." The white man looked venum at the black one, and hissing out, "Do you suppose I am going to sit by a —— black nigger like you—let me get out," squeezed by into the aisle and took a vacant seat in front, by the side of a small, pale student lad from Springfield. The latter looked at the new comer, and saying, "Do you suppose I can sit by you, sir—let me pass out," got up and went back to the just vacated seat by the black man. The party of the first part grew pale with added feeling, and said, "Do you prefer to sit by a nigger?" "I prefer to sit by a gentleman." "Do you dare to say I am not a gentleman?" "A gentleman never swears or insults a man because of his color." "You shall be taken care of, you impudent stripling." When the black brother, stalwart and suggestive, broke in—"I will take care of him, sir," there ensued "a splendid passage of silence," and the car went on, and there was no assault and battery for the Worcester Police Court.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY OF ANCIENT TREASURE.—The Nile of Alexandria observes:

Every one is talking for the last few days about a treasure found in the province of Fayoum. The story goes that an old resident of the province waited lately in a mysterious manner upon His Highness and asked permission to make search for the garden of an ancient Coptic convent, now abandoned, with the view of discovering a treasure which old manuscripts described as being buried in a certain spot. The Viceroy granted the necessary permission, allowing the applicant to retain a third of what he might discover. The researches commenced and are said to have speedily brought to light a treasure consisting partly of ingots and partly of very ancient gold pieces, rather larger than Napoleons, of a total value represented as about fifty millions of francs. The discovery having been telegraphed to Bas-el-Tin, the Viceroy left to investigate the matter in person. Can it be the cash box of Amenopolis XXXVII, which that monarch lost on a journey, according to the inscriptions on the obelisk of Luxor?

A Paris tradesman announces that a franc (a dollar) gold piece is concealed in one of every hundred sausages exposed for sale in his shop. The demand for sausages has become somewhat extraordinary. A perfumer having adopted a similar method of increasing the sale of soap, was threatened by the sausage maker with legal proceedings for imitating his invention, but he soon ascertained that he had no ground for action.

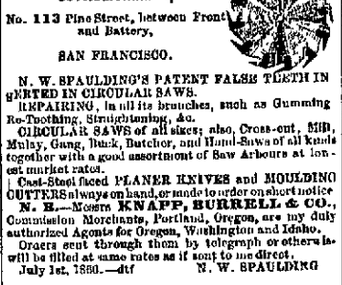
LEFFEL'S
AMERICAN DOUBLE TURBINE



THESE WHEELS, unequaled and unrivaled in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, more than forty being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery, Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories, &c., &c.
On account of the late calamity to the OREGON IRON WORKS we have lost a few Wheels, but of those since we have a good supply, therefore those contemplating using this Wheel need not be disappointed, but forward their order at once, accompanied with the CASH, which we now need more than the Wheels.
We cheerfully refer to all using our wheels, and are assured that all will agree that our wheels accomplish all and even more than we claim for them. Address
